Forum Guidelines

Terms & Conditions

1. The PDA Society discussion forum is designed to provide support and information on a peer to peer basis and to be a place for users to share experiences. The forum is not a substitute for professional advice. The Forum is not designed as a crisis response service and therefore is NOT moderated on a 24/7 basis, although moderators are scheduled to review the forum on a daily basis. If urgent help is needed this should be sought through other channels: <https://www.pdasociety.org.uk/resources/resource-category/support-and-advice/> or via the Police, A&E or Social Care.
2. All content posted by users is representation of the user's own opinions and not that of the PDA Society. This includes content posted by PDA Society Trustees and Volunteer members when acting in a non-official capacity. No warranty is given as to the accuracy of information shared on the forum.
3. While the moderators of the forum will attempt to remove or edit any generally objectionable material as quickly as possible, it is impossible to review every message. Therefore, you acknowledge that all posts made to these forums express the views and opinions of the author and not the moderators or webmaster (except for posts by these people) and hence will not be held liable.
4. Messages in our public forums are available for anyone to read but in order to post on the forum, you need to register with us. It is a condition of use that the information you give during registration is truthful. Access to certain restricted areas of the forum is moderated, and access is granted at the discretion of the PDA Society Moderators following receipt of a completed application. In some cases we may need to contact you to ask for further information before access to restricted areas is granted. We aim to approve membership within 1 week.
5. Each registration is for a single user only. We do not permit you to share your user name and password with any other person nor with multiple users on a network. Each user may only register once and use a single username, any duplicate accounts may be closed down.
6. Our forum is solely for users aged 18 and over. Users younger than 18 years should not register or participate in forum discussions.
7. Responsibility for the security of any passwords issued rests with you and if you know or suspect that someone else knows your password, you should re-set your password and contact us immediately.
8. It is also your responsibility to inform the PDA Society of any changes to the details you submitted at the time of registration for the forum

9. Should you wish to cancel your forum registration please e-mail us at forum@pdasociety.org.uk from the e-mail address that you registered with.
10. You agree not to post any abusive, obscene, vulgar, slanderous, hateful, threatening, sexually-oriented or any other material that may violate any applicable laws. Doing so may lead to you being immediately and permanently banned (and your service provider being informed). The IP address of all posts is recorded to aid in enforcing these conditions.
11. You agree that the admin and moderators of this forum have the right to remove, edit, move or close any topic at any time should they see fit.
12. We reserve the right to close a user account for any reason at our discretion and without warning.
13. We reserve the right to close a user account that has not been used for 4 years or more.
14. We reserve the right to delete any accounts where the verification link, sent via email, has not been activated within 30 days of registering an account.
15. Promotion of commercial products or services is not permitted.
16. It is not permitted to share any links to fundraising pages unless the funds are being raised for an official and regulated organisation or registered charity.

General Guidelines and Principles

Please carefully read and follow our forum general guidelines & principles, in addition to our terms & conditions to ensure that our forums are a positive place where members can seek advice, share experiences and support each other on a friendly and non-judgmental platform

When using any of the Forums please remember:

1. To welcome new members to the forum and respond to any posts in a supportive, polite and non-judgmental manner.
2. Offering alternative parenting styles and options to support other members who are looking for support and advice is welcomed. However, please refrain from directly challenging another members' parenting style or choices, purely on the basis that you don't personally agree with them.
3. Remember to share all your positive and humorous experiences as well as periods that are more difficult to manage.
4. Please refrain from regular and persistent negative posting relating to external services or organisations which may be deemed as detrimental to the moral and general well-being of other members.
5. Members must not share any information between forums without the prior consent of the specific user that has posted the information that you wish to share. If you are unable to contact the user please contact an Admin or Moderator for advice.
6. You agree not to post in the forum any personal details or private information relating to another individual from which that individual can be identified.
7. Posts deemed to be unrelated to PDA or unrelated to the original question asked by a member, and therefore 'off topic', may be removed at the discretion of an Admin or Moderator. This would include posts of a political or religious nature and posts which discuss the activities of individuals or groups known to incite hatred against autism in general.
8. We positively encourage the sharing of links to external resources about PDA that are informative, supportive and helpful. But, the sharing of external links that are not deemed to be suitable for our forum will be removed at the discretion of an Admin or Moderator.
9. As stated in our T&C the promotion of commercial products or services is not permitted, and please do not share any links to fundraising pages unless the funds are being raised for an official and regulated organisation or registered charity.

10. Our peer to peer Forums are intended for members to support and respond to each other, Admins and Moderators may also respond to posts and offer signposting. However it should be remembered that the Forum is not designed or set up to respond to immediate posts and is therefore not offered as a crisis service. If urgent help is needed this should be sought through other channels depending upon need: <https://www.pdasociety.org.uk/resources/resource-category/support-and-advice/> or via the Police, A&E or Social Care. For more specific support/advice the PDA Society Enquiry Line is staffed by Trained Parent Volunteers who will reply to enquiries within 3-5 days.
11. Please remember that Admins and Moderators may not always respond to all posts especially if they feel there are no other relevant signposting tips or support to offer. Occasionally a response may be made privately if it is felt this would be better responded to away from more public areas. However, if you feel that there is post on the forum that does require an urgent response please do notify the moderators by emailing details to: forum@pdasociety.org.uk.

After completing the form click on 'sign up'

A verification email will be sent to your registered email address and you need to click on the link in the email which then verifies your account. Once you have completed this step you can then view the main members area and also the public areas, and you can post in these areas of the forum. We reserve the right to delete any accounts where the verification link, sent via email, has not been activated within 30 days of registering an account. If the account is still required after 30 days you will need to re-register to receive a new verification link.

Logging in and accessing the forum

If you have already registered as a forum user then to sign in you would Go to www.pdasociety.org.uk/forum or navigate to the forum using the menu link on the PDA Society website and click on the sign in button

You then need to enter your username and password and click on the 'sign in' button

Once logged in you will see your username in the top banner, as shown below.

'Mobile Site' or 'Full Site'?

When you first log in on your mobile device the forum usually displays in mobile view.

In mobile view the top banner looks like the one below

Although you can complete many actions in the 'Mobile Site', there are some actions you cannot complete E.g. setting notification preferences, resetting your password, viewing bookmarked posts and viewing your notifications list. To enable this, you need to switch to 'Full Site'

To switch to 'Full Site' you need go to the bottom of page and look for the words 'Full Site' just above the vanilla forum logo. Click on 'Full Site' to be able to complete actions such as setting notification preferences; and viewing your pop up notifications.

When you are viewing Full Site' the top banner will look like the one in the screenshot below and you will be able to see your avatar in the top right

Forum Pop up Messages

When you first log in to the forum you may see some pop up messages – see the welcome message in the screen shot below. Some messages are temporary and can be dismissed. These may appear at the bottom of the screen. To dismiss a message this you click on the little x symbol on the top right of the message box, and this will dismiss the message - it will not appear again.

Some messages like the one shown below about the 'general discussions category of the forum' cannot be dismissed – you can see there is no little cross in the top right.

If you wish to change your forum username please contact our admin/moderating team by emailing forum@pdasociety.org.uk and let them know your current username and your new chosen username. Please ensure that you send your e-mail from same e-mail account you have used to register with our website/forum.

Section D

Navigating and Posting on the forum, editing posts and sending personal messages

Navigating the forum

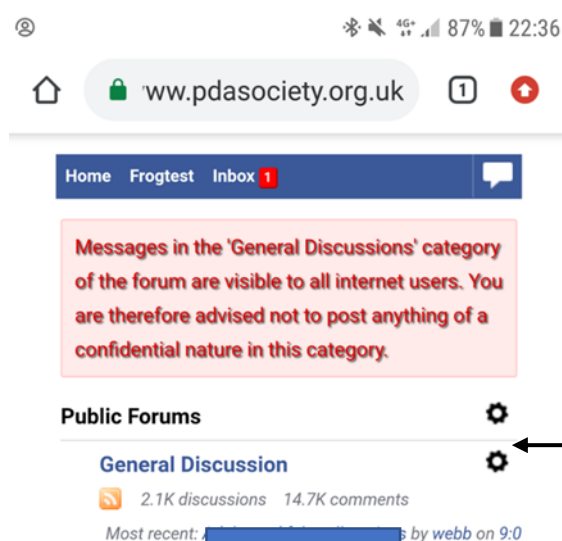

Mobile View

When you log in you can see the list of forum areas of which you are a member.

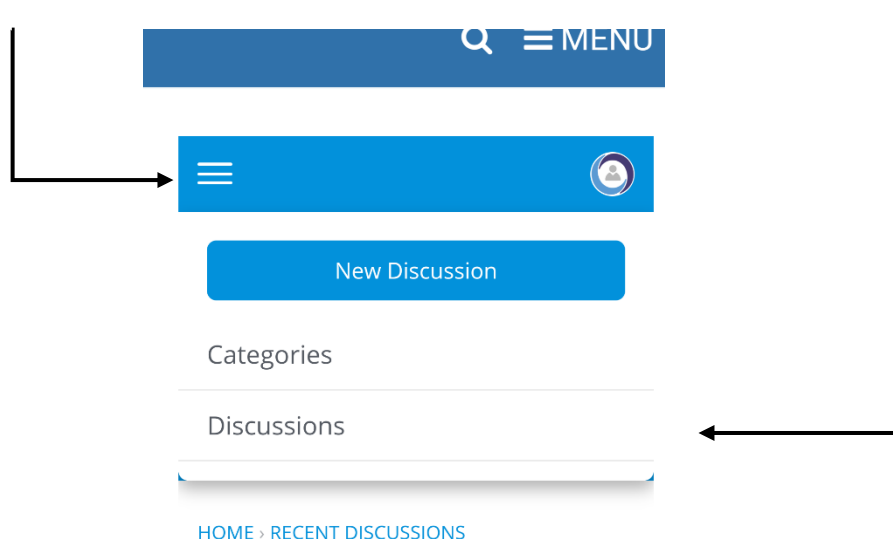

You can click on one of the forum areas e.g. 'General Discussion' to view all the posts in that area.

If you haven't accessed the forum for a while and don't want to see all the unread messages you can click on the circle to the right of the forum area and then click on 'Mark Read' and all posts in that area will be marked as read.

In 'Full Site' you can also click on 'Recent Discussions' to see the most recent posts in the forum.

Click on the three lines on the left side to open up a menu; then select 'Discussions'

When you view the 'Recent Discussions' list you will see at the top of the list some posts which are marked as 'announcements' – posts that an admin or moderator would like users to see. To remove these so you don't see them all the time you can 'dismiss' the post by clicking on the little circle to the right of the post details then click on the word 'dismiss' which will appear further down the screen

If you then refresh your screen, the dismissed post will disappear from the list that you see.

Searching the forum

To search the forum to find all posts containing a keyword you use the 'Search' button at the top of the page ('Mobile' and 'Full' view. Type your keyword into the box and press enter and it will find all posts containing that keyword.

HOME > RECENT DISCUSSIONS

Messages in the 'General Discussions'

The posts containing the keyword you have searched for will appear in a list on the screen.

Bookmark a post

To bookmark a post so that you can find it again more easily, you need to click on the little star to the right side of the post. If you have bookmarked it the star will turn yellow (click again to cancel and the star will go back to being white)
